

Gloria Ramos Gonzalez, Ed.D

Dr. Gloria Ramos Gonzalez has been in the field of education since 1996. Over this time, she has been a bilingual classroom teacher across several school districts, a bilingual reading specialist, and consultant. She has also worked in academic language research, and is currently serving as a mentor in the Two Way Immersion Network, based out of Boston College to support dual language schools across the U.S. Gloria earned her doctorate from the University of Southern California and holds a Masters of Education in Language and Literacy from Harvard University with a reading specialist credential focused on second language acquisition. Her undergraduate work is in Liberal Studies and Psychology from Mt. St. Mary's University with a minor in Spanish from Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara, Mexico. She has presented her original research at the American Educational Research Association (AERA), and is currently working on publishing her first book on academic language development. Dr. Gloria has her own consulting firm, www.gloriaramosgonzalez.com, that provides professional development workshops to school teams and helps districts develop their literacy and dual language programs. She has extensive experience developing dual language curriculum and has many years of literacy coaching experience in both Spanish and English settings.

cabepds@gocabe.org

(626) 814-4441 ext. 212

20888 Amar Rd., Walnut, Ca 91789